After three days' deliberation the Presbyterian union committee which met to discuss a basis of union with the Methodist and Congregational churches, passed the following resolution, which was moved by Dr. Rev. There was a minority report which advocated the immediate federation of all the evangelical churches of the dominion.

President-Elect Woodrow Wilson and his family arrived back from Bermuda Monday morning and were received by crowds of politicians and friends. There is some talk of his making a swift tour to Canada before assuming the presidency, to gain first-hand knowledge of Canada's position on reciprocity, in order to use the information in formulating his tariff proposals. He has admitted that he considers the most reports he has so far of Canada's attitude very partizan and unreliable. If he to gets to Canada it must be before he assumes the presidency, as the United States' president never crosses the border.

His Honor Judge Deroche has handed out a judgment in a reference on the Voters' List made to him by the township of Tyendinaga and the whites on the Indian Reservation, which is of the deepest interest to Tyendinaga. His decision is that the white residents on the Reserve and otherwise qualified are entitled to vote on Part III at parliamentary elections. Tyendinaga has in times past levied and collected taxes on the reserves, built roads and exercised the rights of a municipality, but a few years ago the question was raised as to the rights of the township to collect taxes. Then they raised the rights of the whites to vote at municipal elections Judge Deroche held that no white man on the reservation is entitled to vote thereat, and therefore not entitled to be on either Parts I or II of the Voters' List.

Hit Over Head With Axe.

Sarnia, Ont., Dec. 17.—With a deep wound in his skull, inflicted with an axe, James Smith, a Lambton County farmer, of Euphemia Township, lies in a critical condition at his home. The injured man alleges that the blow was struck by another farmer, whose home is near the Smith house. Crown Attorney Bucke of Sarnia has ordered an investigation. The county police of Lambton and Kent Counties have received instructions to arrest Hopper if he can be located. Many think that he has reached the border and crossed the St. Clair river into the United States.

According to Smith, the assault was committed several days ago in front of his home. He had been called out to help repair a broken traction engine and got into a quarrel with his assailant's father. He says the son hit him with an axe he had for cutting wood.

PEACE ENVOYS GATHER

Sir Edward Grey Addresses the Turco-Balkan Delegates.

Probable Demands of Turkey, Al-Though They Concede Four-fifths of the Ottoman Territory In Europe,
Are More Than the Allies Will Concede—Would Keep Saloniki, Scu-tari and Monastir.

London, Dec. 17.—The plenipotentiaries who have under consideration the arrangement of peace between Turkey and the Balkans met yesterday in St. James' Palace. They adjourning early in the afternoon, without having entered into the discussion of the question of peace.

The feature of the day was the address of welcome delivered by Sir Edward Grey, the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, who was elected honorary president of the conference.
The responses of the heads of the various delegations indicated a desire to accomplish the purpose for which the conference is being held.

All the delegates applauded Sir Edward Grey's speech, which evidently like his statement in the House of Commons would, aimed at impartiality. But the Balkan delegates seemingly are more satisfied with its substance than the Turks.

In this passage, "In this way you will lay foundations on which I trust will be built by true wisdom and statesmanship the prosperity, moral,
economic and national, of your respective countries," they see a plain allusion to their states, as they are fighting for the principle of nationality and they are trying to upbuild the moral and economic prosperity of their countries; while for Turkey it is a question of general demolition.
Thus they think that the British Foreign Secretary, notwithstanding his efforts at impartiality, could not help —perhaps unconsciously—but give a hint on which side his sympathies are.

In his reply, Dr. Danec of the Bulgarian delegation emphasized Sir Edward's utterance, when he said that the conference would work "to insure the Balkan states, so troubled in the past, an era of tranquility and progress"—which is considered as meaning without Turkey.

The first encounter between the allies and the Turks will begin to-day.
A climax will be reached when both sides exchange their respective propositions for the conclusion of peace.

The terms sought by the allies, as generally understood, have already been published.

The terms formulated by Turkey have been kept secret, but it may be asserted on good authority that they include the recommendation by both sides of any money transaction under the form of indemnities or otherwise, except the taking over by the Balkan states of a portion of the Ottoman public debt proportionately to the new territories they acquire. They provide also that the Sultan shall have a representative in the territories passing to the allies, where Ottoman courts shall be instituted for Mussulman subjects. Adrianople, the first Turkish capital in Europe, and surrounding territory, shall remain to Turkey. The Turco-Bulgarian frontier south of Adrianople, shall be marked by the Maritza river, while the territory west of Maritza as far as the

FOR RESEARCH WORK.

Toronto University Receives Splendid Endowment.

Toronto, Dec. 17.—An endowment fund for medical research work which will amount to over $25,000 yearly will make the Toronto Medical College the Premier institution of its class in Canada. The subscribers to the fund are many, and among their number are Mr. J. C. Eaton of this city, and Hon. Clifford Sifton of Ottawa.

The money will be placed at the disposal of the University of Toronto medical authorities and will be devoted to medical research work. The students chosen to carry on the work will not necessarily be graduates of Toronto, but they will all have to prove that they are well fitted for it.
The work will at first be carried on in the new General Hospital building, but later may be extended to the other hospitals. At present the authorities, are fitting up a special library for research work. Many of the books are written in German or French, and this facts makes it compulsory that the doctors pursuing the work are well trained in these two languages.
The medical faculty of the university will supervise the work.

Three doctors have already been chosen to pursue this research work
and others will be appointed later.
Dr. Caulfield, who has been connected with the Muskoka Sanitarium for a number of years, will give all his time to research work in tuberculosis
for which he is well fitted. Dr. Imrie,
a graduate of Western University, London, Ont., and Dr. McPherson, a graduate of Toronto University, who has taken post-graduate work in London, Eng., are the other two men.

Battle Near Dardanelles.

London, Dec. 17.—A naval engagement between the Greek and Turkish fleets occurred yesterday between the Dardanelles and Imbros Island. It lasted for one hour and a half, and the damage done is problematic.

The official reports from the Turkish and Greek commanders show that the Turkish warships left the Dardanelles at 8.20 o'clock in the morning. The fight began at 9.25. What ships were engaged is not known.

After heavy cannonading, the Turks, who throughout had remained under the protection of the forts, retired within the Dardanelles.

The Turks claim to have silenced

Ambassadors Meet to-day.

London, Oct. 17.—It is officially announced that the ambassadorial "conversations" in regard to the Balkan situation are to begin to-day at the British Foreign Office.

The Ambassadors of France, Germany, Russia, Austria-Hungary and Italy will, in the course of these "conversations," go over the whole ground of the status of European Turkey as a result of the war. They will informally discuss the questions of the interests of the great powers arising out of the change in the territorial situation. There is no fixed program, and efforts will be made to avoid touching on questions in regard to which some of the powers have taken a fixed stand and which they do not consider to come within the scope of the discussions.

Canadian Lines Complained.

St. Louis, Dec. 17.—H. C. Martin, general freight agent of the G.T.R., testified yesterday before R. H. Meyer, an examiner of the Interstate Commerce Commission, that American railroads raised their rates on lumber from southeastern states because the Canadian roads complained the rate was too low.

The hearing is being conducted on complaint of lumber dealers who are protesting against the suspension of a rate of 37 cents from territory south of the Ohio river to Canada.

Housework Drudgery!

Housework is drudgery for the weak woman. She brushes, dusts and scrubs, or is on her feet all day attending to the many details of the household, her back aching, her temples throbbing, nerves quivering under the stress of pain, possibly dizzy feelings. Sometimes rest in bed is not refreshing, because the poor tired nerves do not permit of refreshing sleep. The real need of weak, nervous women is satisfied by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and as Mrs. Briggs and others testify:

It Makes Weak Women Strong and Sick Women Well.

This "Prescription" removes the cause of women's weaknesses, heals inflammation and ulceration. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite and induces restful sleep.

Mrs. Briggs.

Dr. Pierce is perfectly willing to let everyone know what his "Favorite Prescription" contains, a complete list of ingredients on the bottle-wrapper. Do not let any druggist persuade you that his unknown composition is "just as good" in order that he may make a bigger profit.

Mrs. BRIGGS, of 529 N. Washington St., Delphos, Ohio, writes: "Having taken your 'Favorite Prescription' for a bad case of intestinal disease and constipation with woman's ills, for which I was almost unable to do anything, I think I am safe in saying that there are no remedies in the world like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Purifying Lotion Tablets.' I am now enjoying the best of health, and thank Dr. Pierce for his wonderful medicines which have done me a world of good."

PEPYS' LITTLE FEAST.

At Which the Diarist Fared Better Than He Did on Washday.

Mr. Samuel Pepys, of the famous "Diary," had rather more than his share of human weaknesses and frailties, but had he been a better man it is certain that his "Diary" would have been a duller book.

It is, for example, an undoubted fact that Mr. Pepys was something of a gormand—was rather fonder of the table and of the delights thereof than a really wise man ought to have been. It is to this trait in his character and to his curious habit of jotting down rough notes of what he had had for dinner that we owe a thousand little details regarding the table of well to do Englishmen in the reign of his majesty King Charles II., of hilarious memory.

What will be thought of the following for a nice, dainty little meal? It is the menu of a little "feast," as he calls it, which the diarist gave every year in commemoration of his being operated on successfully for a dangerous disease. He proudly chronicles that the dishes on this occasion included "a fricassee of rabbits and chickens, a leg of mutton boiled, three carps in a dish, a great dish of a side of lamb, a dish of roasted pigeons, a dish of four lobsters, three tarts, a lamprey pie"—a most rare pie—"a dish of anchovies and good wine of several sorts. And all things mighty and noble and to my great content," he adds complacently.

The number of guests on this occasion is not given, but at another time, with six guests, he has "after oysters a hash of rabbits and lamb and a rare chine of beef; next a great dish of roasted fowl—cost me about 30 shillings—and a tart, and then fruit and cheese."

About 10 o'clock at night he sends his guests away "after a good sack posset and cold meat." The whole will cost him, he observes, about £5—say £20 of present day English money.

These are what the diarist calls "feasts." On ordinary occasions the fare is, of course, much more modest—for instance:

"Dined at home with my wife. It being washing day, we had a good pie baked of a leg of mutton."

No doubt the poor man was thankful enough to get that for one gathers

BEAUTIFYING THE HOME.

When Planting Trees Try to Obtain Effect of Space and Freedom.

A mistake commonly made in planting trees and shrubs on the home grounds is that of placing something in every available bit of space. The yard is planted as though it were an orchard or a grove, the trees being placed at regular intervals or scattered about indiscriminately wherever a sufficient clear space is found. Abundance of shade is undoubtedly obtained in this way, but such planting does not utilize all the possibilities for beauty and variety of effect which even a small yard affords.

A more satisfactory method is that which takes into account the beauty and value of the open spaces of lawn and makes the most of them by massing the trees and shrubs according to a fairly definite plan along the sides and at the rear of the stretches of greensward. In this way there is no sacrifice of shade, and an effect of

CHEESECLOTH FOR TRUCK.

Better Than Glass as a Shelter For Growing Vegetables.

The past summer, for the first time, I tried cheesecloth shelters in our kitchen garden, says a Country Gentleman writer. Next summer I am going to have more vegetables under cheesecloth, for it is great stuff. Some old boards were lying round—half-inch lumber about eight inches wide. I cut them up into pieces fifteen inches long. Four of these pieces nailed together made a square frame—a box without top or bottom. Over the top I tacked a piece of cheesecloth. There was lumber for only twenty-four of them, and I put eight over some cucumber plants started in the house, eight over watermelons and eight over muskmelons. Results were most definite. We had cucumbers from the sheltered vines two weeks earlier than usual and watermelons as big as coconuts before plants that were set in the open had formed fruit. The white shelter has a forcing effect and yet permits hardy growth. Cloth has an advantage over glass in that it lets in moisture. It is also a protection against bugs.

When the vines under cloth outgrew the frames I removed them. Just then I was nursing along a dozen eggplants. With bugs, dry weather and other disadvantages, it seemed as if they would not live. Twelve of the frames were clapped over these plants, and in two days the effect could be seen in whole, healthy green leaves. Then some brussels sprouts came for transplanting in July, when the sky was like brass. I put them right out as soon as received, with a cheesecloth frame over each, and they grew as if they had been transplanted in a week of rain.

Cheesecloth is cheap. If you buy a bolt of it, about seventy-five yards, it costs about 2½ cents a yard. The coarse, unbleached variety a yard wide is what you want.

CLOVER FOR THE SOIL.

It Will Make Poor Land Richer and Can Be Grown Easily.

The trouble with soils when they cease to produce as they did when new is not that the elements of plant food are actually exhausted from the soil, but the necessary forces for the liberation are exhausted. One of these forces is bacteria. It is estimated that in the common soil there are 150 million bacteria to the ounce. These bacteria must have humus (decayed vegetable matter) for their food; then they will liberate food for the growth of plants.

The supply of humus, the supply of nitrogen, the physical condition of the soil, the penetration, aeration and porosity of the subsoil, can be established by the growth of sweet clover at a cheapness that is startling. Nor is it a hard plant to grow. It is one of the hardiest of the leguminous plants. It seems to establish itself on old, wornout soils where other legumes will not grow at all and where field crops grow so poorly as not to pay. Owing to these characteristics and to the fact that its bacteria are capable of living and prospering on the roots of alfalfa, it is perhaps the best possible plant with which to pre-empt alfalfa in sections where there

No doubt the poor man was thankful enough to get that, for one gathers from the "Diary" that he generally had cold meat on washing days. In those days, look you, washing day was—washing day. Mrs. Pepys and her "people"—two or three maids and a cook maid—did it themselves—and washerwomen, and the good lady and her helpers were generally up at 4 o'clock in the morning in summer.

SILO WISDOM.

Observe These Points and Get the Best Results From Your Labor.

The basic point about a silo is that it must be an air tight receptacle. A cement silo should always be pitched with tar or painted on the inside with some air tight material before filling.

The sole reason for building the silo is that it is the most economical way of storing a succulent feed. We can store three times as much dry matter in a silo per square foot as we can in a haymow.

The theory of silage is that sugar, protein, etc., turn to lactic acid by fermentation. Heat is generated, from 100 to 175 degrees, which kills off all germ life, or, rather, the germ life kills off itself. The longer this heat is maintained the better the silage. Around the outside the temperature is frequently low. Cypress, redwood and cement allow a little absorption, dry silage a little on the outside and provide fermentation.

Forty pounds per cubic foot is about the right weight for silage. It is practically uniform all the way down.

The most expensive place to build a silo is inside a barn. It may be desirable for convenience, however, but it takes up valuable space that can be used for storing grain or sheltering animals.

Silage must be cut fine. The finer it is cut the better it will pack and the better it will be. A quarter of an inch is about the right length, and a half inch is the limit at which silage ought to be cut. What you lose in cutting you gain in labor in the pit.—Farm Press.

Disadvantages of Various Soils.

Many soils are unfavorable to vegetation because the soil is too close and adhesive to allow the free passage of air or water to the roots of the plants. It also obstructs the expansion of the fibers of the root. Sandy soils are unfavorable because they consist of particles that have too little adhesion to each other. They do not retain sufficient moisture for the nourishment of the plants. They allow too much solar heat to pass to the roots. Chalk soils are unfavorable because they do not absorb the solar heat and are therefore cold to the roots of the plants.—Iowa Homestead.

Making New From Old.

New guard plates and sickle sections would transform many an old mower into a good machine. The cutting parts being renewed and the bar lined up straight with the pitman, the machine should be in shape for fine work.—Iowa Homestead.

BEAUTIFULLY SURROUNDED FARM HOME.

spaciousness and freedom is obtained which is ordinarily quite lacking where trees and shrubbery are crowded closely together all about the place.

Such planting, in fact, when skillfully done, makes a small yard seem larger or, in any case, nothing smaller than it actually is. Even a small sweep of lawn if it is unbroken gives something of an effect of breadth and size, and the trees and shrubs thickly and somewhat irregularly planted about its edges are effective in concealing the true shape and limits of the grounds.

Flower beds, except where a consistently formal effect is attempted, should be kept out of the middle of the lawn. They may be used to advantage as borders along the walks, buildings and hedges or masses of shrubs. Shrubs are most naturally planted in groups by themselves or in connection with a row or mass of trees to form a screen or background.

Trees may sometimes be planted very close together with good effect. The charm, particularly to children, of a densely shaded retreat or a thicket of trees and bushes in some corner is not always realized by the town dweller. Too many trees and shrubs should not be planted close to the house, as they interfere with the light and tend to induce dampness.—National Stockman and Farmer.

WHO'S A REAL FARMER?

The real farmer is thus described by T. A. Glevens of Nebraska: "In my estimation, the man who simply raises corn and wheat and hay to haul to market is not a farmer. But rather the man who raises a sufficient diversity of crops best suited to his locality to furnish a rotation and maintain the productivity of the soil and who does not sell these as a raw material, but feeds them on the farm to different kinds of good stock that he has raised himself, is entitled to the honor of being called a farmer—yes, a good farmer."—Kansas Farmer.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Then the wire is wound as tightly as possible around the wood and fitted in the notches till the other end is reached, when the wire is passed through the other hole and fastened securely. All that is necessary is to rub this device over the corn and ears to loosen the grain.

Points For the Thinking Farmer.

Now is an excellent time to lay that concrete walk that you promised your wife to make last winter, when the mud was ankle deep. These are excellent months for odd jobs on the farm.

No kind of manure, either animal excrement or fertilizers, will take the place of good, thorough tillage. Plow the land at the right time and to the right depth, then work it down to a mellow seed bed with disk and roller, and harrow.

A brick wall or foundation, while substantial enough, looks rather old fashioned now. The concrete or cement block foundation is the modern type and, like most modern things, is an improvement over that which preceded it. A great thing about concrete is its permanence and cheapness.

TABLE ACCESSORIES.

Napkin Rings Out of Date—Napkin Envelopes In.

Napkin rings are out of date. The time honored circlet of silver, ivory or carved wood will no longer grace the tables of the truly up to date house-keeper. In their place has appeared the daintiest of table accessories, the napkin envelope.

These dainty receptacles are made of fine linen that matches the center- pieces and doilies used elsewhere on the table.

They are decorated with embroidery, of course, but here there is opportu- nity for more elaborate work, and dif- ferent work if you choose. For exam- ple, a girl can make her own napkin envelope, embroidered with a pretty spray of her favorite flowers and her monogram or one initial in one corner, and this is a good plan, for then if she goes away from home on a visit it can be taken along to be used by her hostess in place of the usual ring.

You can obtain the pattern by open- ing an ordinary business envelope six and one-half or seven inches by three and one-half inches wide. Cut the lin- en according to this pattern and but- tonhole the edges, either straight or in shallow scallops. Then stamp the de- sired design on the plain portion of the linen that corresponds to the side of the envelope which bears the ad- dress when sending a letter. You can choose a design of flowers that will allow a blossom or a spray of leaves to be carried over on the flap, or that space may be reserved for the mono- gram or initial of the owner.

Another method of making the envel- ope is to cut an oblong piece of linen 10½ by 6½ inches, scallop and button- hole the edges. From one end measure three and one-half inches and fold the linen over flat, so that it will lie over the other fold, as does the flap of the envelope. This done, the embroidery is worked on the outside of the flap, and the ends of this oblong envelope are caught together with the buttonhole stitch or by narrow ribbon run through small eyelets that have previously been worked.

Boarding House Business Good For Woman of Executive Ability.

In the Woman's Home Companion a woman writes a most interesting ac- count of her experiences as a keeper of a boarding house. She thinks that where a woman has a very small amount of capital the boarding house business is the best business in the world. Following is a brief extract:

"The actual reason for my success in keeping boarders is this: I have given my boarders clean rooms, good service and excellent homelike meals, well cooked from the best materials and served simply and efficiently.

"Breakfast is from 7 to 8:30. They have their choice of two cooked and one uncooked cereal and the fruits of the season, eggs in every style or chops, hot rolls and coffee. Some take eggs beaten in milk and others hot boiled milk. I take pains to have the tastes of the boarders catered to. That pays.

"Luncheon is from 12 to 1 o'clock. We have a hot entree, a cold meat, preserves and cake, plenty of bread and butter, coffee, tea and iced tea.

"Dinner is from 6 to 7:15. We have soup, one kind of meat, but that su- perlatively good; two vegetables, a sal- ad and a dessert—not an elaborate menu, but cooked well, daintily serv- ed and made of the best materials and the best variety. We once ran forty days without duplicating a des- sert. That's why my guests are per- manent and paying."

The beauty spot veil is the very lat- est fashion whimsy. On the length and breadth of a white or flesh tinted shetland silk veil there is just one dot—an applique dot of velvet—and when the veil is tied over the hat the dot is made to come in that particular locality where a court plaster beauty spot would ordinarily be worn. This may be at the side of the chin, on the cheek, at one corner of the mouth or in any other piquant and becoming situ- ation.

Diseases of Metals.

Metals suffer from contagious dis- eases analogous to those of living be- ings. Among these diseases one of the most striking is that called "tin pest." Sometimes a block, a plate or medal of tin attacked by this disease crumbles and falls into dust, and sometimes warty protuberances appear on the surface of the metal. Various other metals suffer from a disease that man- ifests itself by a spontaneous recryst- allization. The most remarkable cases occur with lead and hard drawn brass. These diseases are not due, as has been thought, simply to moisture. Temperature plays a part in producing them. The most extraordinary fact perhaps is that the "tin pest" is capa- ble of spreading by contagion.—Har- per's Weekly.

Maybe a Little—After.

'The play was not by any means bril- liant, and obviously the man was bor- ed. Suddenly he leaped to his feet.

"I heard an alarm of fire," he said.

"I must go and see where it is."

His wife, whose hearing was less acute, made way for him in silence, and he disappeared.

"It wasn't a fire after all," he said on his return.

"Nor water, either," said his wife coldly, with a sniff.—Exchange.

Caustic.

Scene—Train stopping at small road- side station. Irritable Old Gentleman—What on earth do they stop at a sta- tion like this for? Objectionable Pas- senger (alighting)—To allow me to get out. Irritable Old Gentleman—Ah! I see it has its advantages, then!

Showed Her Age.

Grace—They say that Miss Forty- odde was named after her Aunt Georg- iana. Gwendolyn—She looks as if she was named before her Aunt Georgiana. —Judge.

The art of being able to make good use of moderate abilities often confers more reputation than real merit.— Rochefoucauld.

Men Who Walked on All Fours.

In the kingdom of Poland there was formerly a law according to which any person found guilty of slander was compelled to walk on all fours through the streets of the town where he lived accompanied by the beadle, as a sign that he was disgraced and unworthy of the name of man. At the next pub- lic festival the delinquent was forced to appear crawling upon hands and knees underneath the banqueting ta- ble and barking like a dog. Every guest was at liberty to give him as many kicks as he chose, and he who had been slandered must toward the end of the banquet throw a pickel bone at the culprit, who, picking it up with his mouth, would leave the room on all fours.

Fire at Tamworth.

Fire which broke out at an early hour Monday morning in the bakery of W. Barrett, of Tamworth, did $3,000 damage before a hastily improvised bucket brigade finally got it under control. The fire is supposed to have originated from defective stovepipes and had obtained considerable headway before being noticed. An alarm was sent out and the villagers soon responded, and considering the poor fire-fighting facilities at hand, they made a gallant fight, and succeeded in confining the flames to the bakery in which they originated, and in the dwellings, one on either side of the bakery. By much hard work on the part of the villagers, who recognized that the safety of the rest of the village depended on their efforts the fire was controlled and finally subdued. The total loss is estimated at $3,000, and is partially covered by insurance.

Conkling's Invective.

Roscoe Conkling, like John J. Ingalls, was a master of invective. Conkling, it is said, once upon a time in summing up to a jury thus attempted to belittle the testimony of a rummy faced, knob-nosed witness for the opposition: "Methinks, gentlemen, I can see that witness now, his mouth stretching across the wide desolation of his face, a sepulcher of rum and a fountain of falsehood!"

Removing to St. Thomas.

The St. Thomas Journal, of Saturday, December 7th, says: "Announcement was made Saturday afternoon of the disposal of the Grand Central hotel, St. Thomas' leading hostelry, from Mr. John M. McCoig to Mr. H. Taylor, proprietor of the Campbell House, Napanee, Ont., and Mr. Emerson, a well-known young business man of Hamilton. The price was $30,000. An option has been taken on the property until March 1st with the intention of purchasing and the new owners will take possession of the hotel about February 1st. The present proprietor, Mr. J. M. McCoig, will leave early in the spring for the west where he believes that the greatest opportunities exist. Mr. McCoig came to St. Thomas a year ago last February from Chatham where for many years he conducted the Garner House. He is a brother of Archie McCoig, M.P. for East Kent. During his residence here Mr. McCoig has made many warm friends who will regret exceedingly his removal from the city. Mrs. McCoig will also be greatly missed. Mr. H. Taylor, one of the new proprietors is one of the best known of Canadian hotelmen. He has had many years of experience in the leading hotels of Canada and the United States. His partner, Mr. Emerson, of Hamilton, is a young and well-known business man."

Who Mr. Taylor's successor in the Campbell House will be has not been definitely settled.

HEAVENLY MANSIONS IN FATHER'S HOUSE

Jesus Now Makes Ready for His Bride, the Church.

Places For Humanity and For the Angels of Various Degrees, Cherubim, Seraphim, Principalities and Powers, But None Previously Prepared For the Bride—She Is God's New Creation.

PASTOR RUSSELL

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 15.—We report one of Pastor Russell's discourses here to-day from the text, "In My Father's House are many mansions; I go to prepare a place for you; I will come again and receive you unto Myself."—John xiv., 2, 3.

The Heavenly Father "dwelleth not in temples made with hands." In the largest sense the whole Creation is His House, every apartment of which shall ultimately be peopled with holy, happy beings. "All the wicked will He destroy."—Psalm cxlv., 20.

Man's fallen condition is the result of heredity. God made Adam in His own image, perfect, upright, holy. Disobedience and sin have wrought mental, moral and physical infirmities, and "There is none righteous, no, not one." All are prone to sin "as the sparks to fly upward."

God provided Adam a mansion—the earth—Paradise. But sin (not unforeseen) brought Adam and his race under a death sentence. God chose to permit sin and death to reign during Six Great Days of a thousand years each, thus to give valuable lessons to both angels and men. He does not intend that this lesson shall work disadvantage to any. He has provided a great Redemption, which shows His sympathy for His creatures and the unchangeableness of His Law.

The Divine Program for dealing with this rebellious province is to be carried out by the Kingdom of Messiah, during the Seventh Great Thousand-year Day. Satan and every evil influence shall be restrained. "The Sun of Righteousness shall arise with healing in His beams," and the curse of death will be set aside. Man will be assisted toward righteousness and life everlasting by the interposition of the Kingdom for which we pray, "Thy Kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth, even as it is done in Heaven." Humanity's Mansions—Perfected Earth.

At the close of Messiah's reign the "mansion" appropriated to Adam and his race will be fully released from the curse, and God's footstool will be a glorious Paradise. (Isaiah lx, 13.) All refusing the blessings of Messiah's Kingdom will be destroyed by the Second Death.—Acts iii, 23; Rev. xx, 14, 15.

While there were places arranged in the Divine Plan for the angels, and for humanity, no habitation was perfected for the Church. This is because the Church is a New Creation.

Writing of these, St. John says: "The world knoweth us not, even as it the Divine Plan for the angels, and for humanity, no habitation was perfected for the Church. This is because the Church is a New Creation.

Writing of these, St. John says: "The world knoweth us not, even as it knew Him not." St. Paul refers to this New Creation as the "ministers of God." All of these demonstrate their faith and obedience by walking the "narrow way" of self-sacrifice, "by faith and not by sight." To all of them it is declared, "Through much tribulation shall ye enter the Kingdom." But this class have the assurance that all things work together for good to them; that they "shall not be tempted above that they are able to bear."

This New Creation is "made a spectacle to angels and men"; God is giving the angels a great object lesson in connection with the development of this class. He is able to transform some of the mean things of this world into polished "jewels." "A royal diadem in the hands of thy God."—Malachi iii, 17; Isaiah lxii, 3.

Heavenly Mansion For Church. St. Peter tells about the "mansion" designed for the Church, saying, "God hath given unto us (consecrated followers of Jesus) exceeding great and precious promises, that by these we might become partakers of the Divine nature."—II. Peter i, 4.

Thus we see what it means to be members of the New Creation! "Eye hath not seen; ear hath not heard; neither have entered the human heart the things which God hath in reservation for them that love Him"—the choicest mansion, the highest place! As our Lord Jesus in His Resurrection ascended "far above angels," so will His Church, who will share His Resurrection, and be made "like him," "see Him as He is," and share His glory.

The Master's death was for humanity in general, but its merit remained to be appropriated at the inauguration of His Kingdom. The whole world still "lieth in the Wicked One," until Christ makes satisfaction for their sins with the merit of His sacrifice.

Meantime, our Lord deals merely with His Church, as we read: "He appeared in the presence of God for us" (Hebrews ix, 24)—as the Church's Advocate, to make "satisfaction for our sins." The preparation in us and for us will be completed when the number is full—144,000. It is for us to comply with the conditions of our covenant of sacrifice and thus to make our "calling and election sure."

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Dec. 16.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ended Dec. 14, were 2200 cattle, 1100 sheep and lambs, 2300 hogs and 450 calves. This was the Christmas cattle market and in consequence there was some very choice stock offered for the butchers and packers to select their supplies from. The bulk of offerings, however, consisted of ordinary and common cattle. Trade was active and a few fancy steers from Ontario brought as high as $7.50 and $3 and some very choice bulls, $5 per cwt., while some full loads of choice steers, sold at $6.75 to $6.90, and others of a lighter average at $6.25 to $6.50 per cwt. One load of 25 steers weighing 26,740 lbs., sold at $5.90 per cwt.
Owing to the continued demand from butchers and packers for lambs and the smaller supplies coming forward, a stronger feeling prevailed in the market and prices were 25c per cwt. higher, sales being made freely at $7 per cwt. The tone of the market for sheep was also much stronger and prices, as compared with a week ago, show an advance of 35c to 50c per cwt., with an active trade in ewes at $4.60 to $5 per cwt.
A weaker feeling developed in the market for hogs and prices ruled 10c to

The active medicinal ingredient of Rexall Orderlies which is odorless, tasteless and colorless is a comparatively new discovery. Combined with other extremely valuable ingredients, it forms a perfect bowel regulator, intestinal invigorator and strengthener. Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy and are notable for their agreeableness to the palate and gentleness of action. They do not cause griping or any disagreeable effect or inconvenience.

Unlike other preparations for a like purpose, they do not create a habit, but instead they act to overcome the cause of habit acquired through the use of ordinary laxatives, cathartics, the harsh physic and permanently remove the cause of constipation or irregular bowel action.

We will refund your money without argument if they do not do as we say they will. Two sizes, 25c. and 10c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store. T. B. Wallace, druggist.

FOREST FIRE FIGHTERS WILL HAVE BETTER FACILITIES IN FUTURE.

During the coming winter the officers in charge of the Braxeau and Athabaska divisions of the Rocky Mountains forest reserve purpose to make "administrative site" surveys at different points on the Reserves. Upon these sites it is proposed to erect ranger and look-out stations which will be no farther apart than one day's trip by pack-train, along the primary trail system of the Braxeau Reserve. It is the intention to erect, this winter at least three or four log cabins for the rangers. A telephone system is also being planned whereby the Ranger Stations will be connected by telephone to the forest supervisor's office. This office is centrally located and telephone lines will run in from all directions, much in the manner as the spokes of a wheel with the central office as the hub.

This region is one of the richest coal regions in Canada and the future development of these coal fields will be amazing. A number of large coal mines are already in operation, and, with the completion of the branches of the G. T. P. railway now under construction, will be shipping thousands of tons daily.

With the future development of this country, the timber must be preserved. This region has once been forested with very valuable timber, which has largely been destroyed by fires in the past. There is still an

CHRISTMAS GAMES

A JOLLY game for the Yuletide evening is called "It." In playing this game some people are exceedingly clever, while others are very unsuccessful.

The players sit in a circle, and a questioner is chosen and sent from the room. The circle selects an object, or an "it," for her to guess from answers to questions she will ask. These questions must refer always to the object to be guessed as "it" and be answered only by "yes" or "no." The questioner does not know that each answer will really refer to the left hand neighbor of the player interrogated, but that is the secret of the game and the thing that confuses and worries a questioner almost to lunacy. She may ask the same question—always to the left—several times in succession or all around the circle if she thinks she can guess "it" in that way.

The questions are limited in number, the latter being fixed by common consent. The number of questions, however, must not exceed in number the players, but the number of players may be less than the allotted number of questions.

As an example of how questioners may be confused the following is given:

Mrs. So-and-so may be selected to be "it." The questioner is called in. She asks of a man, "Is it a man?" His left hand neighbor is a woman, so he replies, "No." Of the next or the neighbor just mentioned is asked, "Is it a woman?" Her next neighbor being a man, again comes the answer "No." "Is it alive?" of the next

COMPOSITE PICTURES.

The game of composite pictures is great fun for the boys and girls at Christmas time. The materials needed for this game are as many pencils and pieces of paper about four by nine inches as there are players. The participants being seated, each divides his paper into three equal parts by folding, then draws on the upper space a comic head, extending the neck a little over the line into the second division, folds the paper over backward and passes it to his right hand neighbor, who draws a body and just the beginning of the legs in the lowest division. This arrangement insures the connection of the three parts of the fish, flesh or fowl drawn. The player who has drawn the body then folds the paper back once more and passes it to his right, when the player who receives it draws a pair of legs in the lowest space. A knowledge of drawing is not expected of any player, as the crudest suggestion of a head, a body or a pair of legs fills all the requirements. Men, animals, birds and fishes may contribute head, body and legs, and the absurd combinations thus obtained make the game a very entertaining one.

PAD AND PENCIL GAMES.

Always a Pleasant Pastime For Yuletide Time.

Pencil and pad games always form a pleasant pastime as the children sit in front of the Christmas fire. The children should all be provided with freshly sharpened pencils and fresh paper pads. A basket of evergreen sprays or any variety of Christmas greens is used for the first writing game. There may be sprigs of holly and mistletoe, ivy, fir, spruce, hemlock, the many kinds of pine including ground pine and arbutus vitae, all of which are to be found somewhere and somehow at Christmas time. Each child selects one spray of green from the basket, writes down the name as he guesses it, and passes it to his neighbor by the fire. This is continued until the supply of greens is exhausted and the basket is empty. The children, during the game should not ask each other the names of the greens. At the end the slips are collected and mother decides which child has won the prize by handing in the nearest correct list of tree and shrub names.

Another pencil and pad game is that of the Christmas cakes. A number of

There is still an abundant supply of mine-prop timber, however, and the whole region is green with young lodgepole pine from ten to thirty years in age. If preserved from fire this will be an invaluable asset to the country, both for economic uses and as protection to the headwaters of all the rivers which rise in the foothills of the eastern slope.

neighbor just mentioned is asked, "Is it a woman?" Her next neighbor being a man, again comes the answer "No." "Is it alive?" of the next. "Yes." Now, as there are no living things but men and women in the room the questioner begins to see light and suspects the intention to confuse her.

Of course she knows there is some rule by which the questions are answered, and so she may go all over them again in reverse or some order until two answers agree. This may be difficult, because the object and arrangement of the circle are to make the answers disagree. It may be that she learns that "it" is a woman after all, and then she must find out, again by questions as to type, age, proximity, color of gown, etc., which one of the circle is "it."

THE BARGAIN COUNTER GAME

A Charming Way to Spend the Christmas Evening.

The Christmas bargain counter is a charming fireside game for Christmas night that will amuse and at the same time instruct the nursery children. The bargain counter may be the nursery table set in front of the fireplace or hearth. On the counter are laid as many as one likes of the toys which the children received from tree and Christmas stockings. One child is chosen to take charge of this play toy shop, and a second child leaves the room after looking carefully first at all the toys on the counter to determine their names. While this child is absent from the room a third child selects and hides one of the toys. When the second child returns he must try at one guess to say which of the toys was sold during his absence. If he guesses successfully he may be the next toyman. To make the game more difficult two or more toys may be hidden. Another and slightly more difficult way of playing the bargain counter game is to have the toyman change the positions of the toys while the child is out of the room. The child on returning must rearrange them, if he can, in exactly the same positions that they had when he left the room. The articles on the bargain counter may be scraps of color instead of toys. Red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet ribbons, balls or Christmas tree candles may be laid out in the order of the rainbow colors. While one child is either blindfolded or outside the room the child in charge of the colors removes one from sight or alters the color or order, and the other child must guess the hidden color or restore the rainbow order on his return.

nearest correct list of tree and shrub names.

Another pencil and pad game is that of the Christmas cakes. A number of sheets of paper are prepared before the game begins, with the following questions written on. The answers, hoe cake, sponge cake, fruit cake, etc., are left blank on the papers and are filled in by the children.

What kind of Christmas cake would be made by a Farmer? Hoe cake.

A diver? Sponge cake.
A little curly haired girl? Ribbon cake.
A huckster? Fruit cake.
Little Jack Horner? Plum cake.
A miner? Gold cake.
A drummer? Pound cake.
The man in the moon? Cheese cake.
Old Mother Hubbard? Poverty cake.

There are many other Christmas cakes which may be added, and the paper with the longest list of correct answers wins a prize. The game may be varied by using the names of candy instead of cake, as follows:

What kind of Christmas candy would be bought by a Schoolmaster? Stick candy.

Shoemaker? Shoestrings (licorice).
Baby? Kisses.
Dentist? Gum drops.
Flatterer? Taffy.
Milkman? Cream candy.
Miller? Barley sugar.
Dairymaid? Butterscotch.

QUAKER MEETING.

An old fashioned game known as "Quaker Meeting" is a great favorite at the Yuletide party. Those who join take seats around the room, and one or more whisper in the ear of each one some witty or absurd thing for him to do. All must be quiet who are not playing. When all are ready one person claps his hands, and the first one must proceed to do what he was told; the others must not speak or laugh on penalty of a forfeit. Each one in turn must act his or her part. It must all be in pantomime.

The parts assigned may be of endless variety. One person may be ordered to play a mock bravura on a table for a piano; another to gaze in admiration of himself in a mirror and arrange his dress and hair; another to act the scornful belle while a gentleman acts the urgent but despairing lover; one to dance a hornpipe; another to make a speech by gesture; another to make grimaces in the face of every one in the company.

HUNT THE WHISTLE.

Play this in small numbers, excluding the majority of the party till the trick (for trick it is) has been performed upon all who declare they don't know the game. Blindfold one of the party and let the rest sit in a circle just as if "hunt the slipper" were to be played. While the blindfolding process is being done tie a whistle to some portion of the dress of the blindfolded one. Let it hang at the end of a long piece of string. The game consists in the circle of players getting hold of the whistle and blowing it, while the blindfolded one has to guess who has it. Of course directly he has discovered the trick it can be played upon another less wary.

THE CHRISTMAS CANDLE.

A Rollicking Game For Yuletide Festivities.

Christmas games for Christmas day should be just the jolliest and most rollicking sort one can possibly find, and one that will make everybody laugh in spite of himself is the game of the Christmas candle. This should be played under the supervision of an older person. To play it after the fashion of the little English children of the time of Queen Elizabeth quite a long, fat wax candle should be provided, with one child chosen to hold the lighted candle and another to try to blow it out. The "blower" is placed a few feet away from the candle, which is held at the height of his head, and facing it. He is then blindfolded, turned around three times, and told to take as many steps as he was

HAVE you ever played "telegrams?" It is a game for a crowd of young or old, or both. Not a very deep or intricate game, nor yet a particularly elevating one, but, nevertheless, full of jolly, mirth provoking qualities and just the thing for your holiday party.

To carry out the idea properly slips of yellow paper should be handed to each participant and pencils provided for them. Each one is to write thirteen different letters at the top of their slip—that is, any thirteen from the alphabetical twenty-six, but without repetition.

For instance, one might write B, G, K, L, M, T, E, W, C, S, H, O, R.

Another A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, and so on.

The slips are then to be passed along to right hand neighbors, who must make an understandable telegram of thirteen words, using the characters at the top of the slips handed them for the first letter of each word. To thoroughly illustrate, take the first example given above. Here is a specimen "telegram" from it:

"Better go Kingston late Monday. Try express Willie candy soldier. Hope orders rushing."

Note the fragmentary sentences, such as are generally employed in correspondence of this sort. The possibilities for good humored fun in the compiling of "telegrams" among a crowd of friends are endless. But, of course, they cannot be satisfactorily illustrated in public print. As in any similar game, care should be exercised in not becoming dangerously personal.

At first glance the second example of letters as given above (the first thirteen in our alphabet) might seem to be difficult of extension. But such is not the case in the wide latitude of sense

A STOCKING CONTEST.

For this contest make as many small stockings of net as there are children to play. Then cut from magazines and advertisements pictures of articles suitable for a Christmas stocking, such as books, games, toys, etc. Mount these on thin cardboard and then cut into irregular pieces for picture puzzles. Place each puzzle separately in a small red envelope or tissue paper and fill the stockings, avoiding duplication. When ready give each a stocking, the object being to find its contents by putting the puzzles together one after the other. A prize should be awarded to the one who first solves all the picture puzzles, and this prize may be one of the filled stockings. They can easily be filled at home for 25 cents each. The same contest may be given for older children by using anagrams instead of the picture puzzles, and these will be found less troublesome to prepare. If desired Christmas boxes may be used instead of the stockings. Place the puzzles or anagrams in small boxes, packing in with cotton as if fragile, and tie up and mark the boxes as if they had come by express or mail.

PARLOR MAGIC.

A Clever Candle Trick That Will Amuse the Youngsters.

Here is a parlor magic trick which never fails to capture an audience and which, at the same time, is so simple that any one can do it. You need six or more candles and as many candlesticks, or you can get along without the candlesticks by holding a lighted match to the bottom of each of the candles, and then, when it has softened ever so slightly, setting the candle firmly in a saucer. The wax or tallow will harden in a moment, holding the candle erect in its place.

Make a hole in one side of each candle, cutting clear through until the wick is severed. These holes must be at various distances from the top—different in each candle.

Now, if you should light one of these candles it would burn steadily until the flame got down to the hole, when the cut in the wick would cause the candle to go out. If you should light them all together they would go out at different times, as the holes are at different places. This is where your trick comes in.

Place your candles in a row on a table with the holes away from your

a few feet away from the candle, which is held at the height of his head, and facing it. He is then blindfolded, turned around three times, and told to take as many steps as he was required to before, and in the direction he thinks the candle to be. Then he blows, trying to put out the candle's flame. Perhaps the child walked straight away from the candle. Any- way his attempts will be very funny indeed as he puffs out his cheeks and blows—probably in the wrong direction—and they will cause much merriment among the other children. Another way of playing this candle game is to use one of the tiny unburnable Christ- mas trees which are to be found in the stores now. Very small colored can- dles are fastened to the tree and lighted, and one child holds it while a second blindfolded child tries to see how many candle flames he can blow out at one attempt. A row of the or- dinary Christmas tree candles may be fastened with pins to a holly wreath so that they stand upright as the wreath lies upon a table. As in the case of the tiny Christmas tree the blindfolded child tries to blow out the flames of as many candles as possible. A prize for the most successful blower will add to the fun of these candle games.

THE CHRISTMAS SHIP.

The Christmas ship is one of the funniest games of all. The children sit in a circle to play it. One child who starts the game says to his neighbor:

"The Christmas ship has come in."

"What did it bring you?" asks the next child.

"A jumpingjack," says the first child perhaps, beginning at once to imitate the hopping motions of a toy jumping- jack.

The child to whom he spoke must also play at being a jumpingjack, say- ing at the same time to his neighbor: "My Christmas ship has come in."

"What did it bring you?" repeats his neighbor.

"A lion," says the jumpingjack, try- ing to continue his hopping and to roar at the same time.

The third child must roar, too, as he gives the child next him the ship in- formation and shows him which toy he must imitate.

By the time a few human jumping- jacks are in motion, some of the lions roaring, two or three trains steaming around the room and some little girl dolls trying to say mamma and papa the game will end in just one grand, hilarious frolic.

SHOEING THE WILD MARE.

"Shoeing the wild mare" was a run- ning game generally played outdoors. The wild mare was a boy or girl, who was given a good start, then all the others chased after him. If caught, his foot was held aloft and the players pretended to shoe it with resounding thumps.

The poet Herrick speaks of this game in a verse on Christmas sports:

Christmas sports, the wasen bowl,
Of blind man's buff and of the care
That young men have to shoe the mare.

becoming dangerously personal.

At first glance the second example of letters as given above (the first thir- teen in our alphabet) might seem to be difficult of extension. But such is not the case in the wide latitude of sense (and nonsense) allowable in the game. For instance, here is only one way out of the thousands in which it can be quickly written:

"Any bright colored dress excellent for Granville's hop. Ikey joins kisses. Loving mother."

Upon completion the "telegrams" are gathered up in a basket and read aloud, either by a disinterested party or some- body selected from among the players themselves.

The only way to appreciate the game of "telegram" is to try it.

A CHRISTMAS EVE GAME.

The Woodseller Affords Pleasant En- tertainment For Holiday Party.

A very amusing Christmas game is the woodseller, and it is capable of sev- eral variations, including the ever pop- ular forfeits. Any number of persons may join in the game.

The person who starts the game writes the name of some kind of wood on a paper and folds the paper so that no one can see the word written upon it. He then goes around, all the rest of the players being seated, and says: "I have a load of wood to sell."

Each person in turn asks:

"What kind?"

The answer is:

"Find out."

Then the person mentions one kind, and if it happens to be the wrong one, the woodseller goes to the next, and so on, until it is finally guessed right. When the right one is named, the one naming it becomes woodseller.

All who make mistakes must pay a forfeit, to be redeemed at the end of the game. Those who name a wood twice pay. The list of woods is a long one, but the best known ones are the very ones that the players are most apt to overlook in naming them. A clever person can make much fun by the manner of calling out his wares and another by witty rejoinders.

GRAB BAG IS LOTS OF FUN

There are many jolly games that can be played on Christmas night, and one of the jolliest is the grab bag, which has afforded much fun in times past.

There should be a big muslin bag—a pillowcase will answer—tied from the chandeller. In this bag put doz- ens and dozens of little gifts, not one of them expensive; just all sorts of trinkets that you can pick up for a few pennies each, every one neatly tied in paper, so no one knows what's inside.

Then a boy or a girl is blindfolded, given a cane in one hand, turned round three times and told to strike at the bag.

It is great sport for the watchers to see the frantic efforts made to hit that bag, and equally exciting when, having succeeded, the blindfolded player dips into the grab bag and pulls out a gift.

Such fun it is to open the packages! For there are enough gifts in the bag to give every brother or sister or cousin lots of hits.

them all together they would go out at different times, as the holes are at different places. This is where your trick comes in.

Place your candles in a row on a table with the holes away from your audience and then light all six. Now, you begin to relate a story about a little girl who was alone in the house and was afraid of the dark, and who lighted six candles to keep up her cour- age. She heard queer noises about the house, and drew close to the light and then (pointing to the candle with the hole nearest the top) the first candle went out. Of course you time your first words, so that you say "out" just before the flame reaches the hole.

As you reach the second point in your tale the second candle goes out, and so on throughout the rest of the six. You may have the holes vary but a fraction of an inch in their distances from the top of the candle and tell a very short story, or you may have your tale a long one, with the distances of the holes from the top to vary an inch or so. By first lighting one candle and watching it burn for a few minutes you can tell almost exactly how long the flame will take to reach a given point.

If you do not have the candles go out in rotation, but skip around from the first to the fifth, then to the second, to the sixth, the fourth and third, you can still further mystify your audience, and if your story be well told the ef- fect will be very pretty indeed.

AN ANIMAL PARTY.

An animal party is an amusing game for the holiday evening. You must prepare a list of different animals, writing each clearly on a line by itself and numbering them according to the number of guests. You must also have small slips of paper numbered to cor- respond with the list of animals. These slips must be folded so that the num- bers do not show and put in a bowl. To each person is given a large sheet of brown wrapping paper and a colored crayon pencil, and then the slips are drawn. Each unfolds the slip drawn and refers to the list of animals, which should be pinned up in a conspicuous place, for the corresponding number. About ten minutes are allowed for the drawings, when they are passed in, on each drawing being the number, but no name. The drawings are then pinned up, and judgment is passed. Every one casts a vote. The number of the one who gains most is then called out, and the person whose slip corresponds to that number receives a prize. Such an entertainment will furnish much fun if ingenuity is displayed in prepar- ing the list of animals, which should include some that are out of the ordi- nary line and unattractive.

Nut Race Is Fun.

A nut race provides plenty of excite- ment for young and old. Place a bowl of nuts at one end of the room and an empty bowl at the other. Each con- testant, holding the hand flat, with fingers close together and extended, dips it into the bowl, getting as many nuts as possible on the back of the hand. These must be carried across the room and dropped into the other bowl. The victory is not always to the large handed, and the game is a great revealer of steady nerves.

THE THREE GUARDSMEN

By ALEXANDRE DUMAS

"We bear witness to this," said Porthos and Aramis.

"Before God and before men I accuse this woman of having urged me to murder the Baron de Wardes and of having employed assassins to shoot me, from whom I was again preserved by God's providence; but, as none can bear witness to these facts, I attest them myself. I have done."

"It is your turn, milord," said Athos. The baron came forward.

"Before God and before men," said he, "I accuse this woman of having been the means of the assassination of the Duke of Buckingham. That is not all. My brother, who made you his heir, died in three hours of a strange disorder, which left vivid traces behind it all over the body. Assassin of Buckingham, assassin of Felton, assassin of my brother, I demand justice upon you, and I swear that if it be not granted to me I will execute it myself!"

Milady let her head sink between her two hands and endeavored to recall her ideas, which whirled about in a mortal vertigo.

"It is my turn," said Athos. "I married that woman when she was a young girl. I married her in opposition to the wishes of all my family. I gave her my wealth, I gave her my name, and one day I discovered that this woman was branded. This woman was marked with a fleur-de-lis on her left shoulder."

"Oh," said milady, "I defy you to find any tribunal which pronounced such an infamous sentence against me! I defy you to find him who executed it!"

"Silence!" cried a hollow voice. "It is for me to reply to that!" And the lackeys followed their masters.

Two of the lackeys now led, or, rather, dragged, along milady by her arms. The executioner walked behind them, and Lord de Winter, D'Artagnan, Porthos and Aramis walked behind the executioner.

The two lackeys led milady to the banks of the river. Being a few paces in advance, she whispered to the lackeys:

"A thousand pistoles to each of you if you will assist my escape, but if you deliver me up to your masters I have near at hand avengers who will make you pay for my death very dearly."

Athos, who heard milady's voice, came sharply up. "Change these lackeys," said he. "She has spoken to them. They are no longer safe."

When they arrived on the banks of the river the executioner approached milady and bound her hands and feet.

Then she broke silence to cry out:

"You are base cowards, miserable assassins, ten men combined to murder one woman! Beware! If I am not saved I shall be avenged!"

"You are not a woman," said Athos coldly and sternly. "You are a demon escaped from hell, to which place we are going to send you back again."

"He who shall touch a hair of my head is himself an assassin."

"The executioner can kill, madame, without being on that account an assassin," said the man in the red cloak, striking upon his immense sword. "This is the last judge."

He took her up in his arms and was carrying her toward the boat.

"Oh, my God," cried she, "my God, are you going to drown me?"

These cries had something heartrending in them. D'Artagnan was the

Then they saw the executioner raise both his arms slowly. The two arms fell with a sudden force. They heard the hissing of the scimitar and the cry of the victim, then a truncated mass sank beneath the blow.

The executioner then took off his red cloak, spread it upon the ground, laid the body in it, threw in the head, tied all up with the four corners, lifted it on to his back and got into the boat again.

When arrived in the middle of the stream he stopped the boat and suspending the burden over the water:

"Let the justice of God be done!" cried he with a loud voice.

And he let the body drop into the depths of the waters, which closed over it.

Within three days the four musketeers were in Paris.

CHAPTER XLVI.

Conclusion.

ON the 6th of the following month the king, in compliance with a promise he had made the cardinal to return to La Rochelle, left his capital still in amazement at the news which began to spread of Buckingham's assassination.

The return to La Rochelle was profoundly dull. Our four friends in particular astonished their comrades; they traveled together, side by side, with spiritless eyes and heads depressed.

One day, when the king had halted to hunt and the four friends had stopped at an inn on the high road, a man coming from La Rochelle on horseback pulled up at the door to drink a glass of wine.

"Filles, M. d'Artagnan," said he. "Is

"And who has punished her?"
"We have."

"Is she in prison?"

"She is dead. Three times tempted to kill me, and I pardoned but she murdered the woman. Then my friends and I took her and condemned her."

find any tribunal which pronounced such an infamous sentence against me! I defy you to find him who executed it!"

"Silence!" cried a hollow voice. "It is for me to reply to that!" And the man in the red cloak came forward.

All eyes were turned toward this man, for to all except Athos he was unknown. And even Athos looked at him with as much stupefaction as the rest.

"The executioner of Lille! The executioner of Lille!" cried milady, a prey to wild terror. "Oh, pardon, pardon!" cried the miserable woman, falling on her knees.

All eyes were fixed upon the unknown, who said:

"That woman was formerly a young maiden as beautiful as she is now. She was a nun in the convent of the Benedictines of Templemar. A young priest, of a simple and trustful heart, performed the duties of the church of that convent. She undertook his seduction and succeeded. She prevailed upon him to leave the country. But to leave the country money was necessary. The priest stole the sacred vases and sold them. But they were both arrested."

"Within a week she seduced the son of the jailer and got away. The young priest was condemned to ten years of imprisonment and to be branded. I was executioner of the city of Lille, as this woman has said, and the guilty man, gentlemen, was my brother. I then swore that this woman who had ruined him should at least share his punishment. I followed her, I caught her and I impressed the same disgraceful mark upon her."

"The day after my return to Lille my brother in his turn succeeded in making his escape. I was accused of complicity and was condemned to remain in his place till he should be again a prisoner. My poor brother was ignorant of this sentence. He rejoined this woman. They fled together into Berry, and there he obtained a little curacy. This woman passed for his sister."

"The lord of the estate upon which the church of the curacy was situated saw this pretended sister and became enamored of her, so much so that he offered to marry her. Then she left him she had ruined for him she was destined to ruin and became the Countess de la Ferre!"

All eyes were turned toward Athos, whose real name that was and who made a sign with his head that all was true that the executioner had said.

"Then," resumed he, "mad, desperate, my poor brother returned to Lille and, learning of my sentence, surrendered himself and hung himself from the iron bar of the loophole of his prison. I was set at liberty. That is the crime of which I accuse her; that is the cause of her being branded."

"MM. d'Artagnan, Porthos, Aramis, De Winter," said Athos, "what is the penalty you demand against this woman?"

"The punishment of death," replied the four in stern, hollow voices.

At these words milady raised herself up to her full height and endeavored to speak, but her strength failed her. She felt that a powerful and implacable hand seized her by the hair and dragged her away.

Lord de Winter, D'Artagnan, Athos, Porthos and Aramis went out close behind her and the executioner. The

He took her up in his arms and was carrying her toward the boat.

"Oh, my God," cried she, "my God, are you going to drown me?"

These cries had something heartrending in them. D'Artagnan was the youngest of all these men. His heart failed him.

"Oh, I cannot behold this frightful spectacle!" said he. "I cannot consent that this woman should die thus!"

Milady heard these few words.

"D'Artagnan, D'Artagnan," cried she, "remember that I loved you!"

Athos drew his sword and placed himself between them.

"One step further, M. d'Artagnan," said he, "and, dearly as I love you, we cross swords." He made a step toward milady.

"I pardon you," said he, "the ill you have done me. Die in peace!"

Lord de Winter advanced in his turn.

"I pardon you," said he, "the poisoning of my brother, the assassination of his grace the Duke of Buckingham. I pardon you the death of poor Felton. I pardon you the attempts upon my own person. Die in peace."

"And I," said M. d'Artagnan, "pardon you, and I weep for you. Die in peace."

"I am lost!" murmured milady in English. "I must die!"

The executioner placed her in the boat. The boat moved off toward the left hand shore of the Lys, bearing the guilty woman and the executioner. All

They Heard the Hissing of the Scimitar and the Cry of the Victim.

The others remained on the right hand bank, where they fell on their knees.

The troop of friends saw the boat gain the opposite bank.

"Hilloa, M. d'Artagnan," said he. "Is not that you I see yonder?"

D'Artagnan raised his head and uttered a cry of joy. It was his unknown of Meung.

D'Artagnan drew his sword and sprang toward the door.

But this time, instead of avoiding him, the unknown jumped from his horse and advanced to meet D'Artagnan.

"In the name of the king, I arrest you!" he said.

"How? What do you say?" cried D'Artagnan.

"I am the Chevalier de Rochefort, the quarry of Mgr. the Cardinal de Richelieu, and I have orders to conduct you to his eminence."

"We are returning to his eminence, M. le Chevalier," said Athos, advancing; "and you will please to accept the word of M. d'Artagnan that he will go straight to La Rochelle. We will be his guards, monsieur, upon our words as gentlemen."

"Gentlemen," said Rochefort, "if M. d'Artagnan will surrender his sword to me and join his word to yours, I will be satisfied with your promise to convey M. d'Artagnan to the quarters of Mgr. the Cardinal. I wish to continue my journey."

"If it is for the purpose of rejoining milady," said Athos coolly, "it is useless; you will not find her."

"What is become of her, then?" asked Rochefort eagerly.

"Come back with us to the camp and you shall know."

They were only a day's journey from Surgeres, to which place the cardinal was to come to meet the king. They resumed their route.

On the morrow at 3 o'clock in the afternoon they arrived at Surgeres. The cardinal here greeted Louis XIII. On returning in the evening to his quarters at the bridge of La Pierre the cardinal found D'Artagnan, without his sword, and the three musketeers, armed, standing before the door of the house. He made a sign with his eye and hand for D'Artagnan to follow him.

D'Artagnan obeyed.

"We shall wait for you, D'Artagnan," said Athos loud enough for the cardinal to hear him.

His eminence went to the chamber which served him as a closet and made a sign to Rochefort to bring in the young musketeer. Rochefort obeyed and retired.

"Monsieur," said the cardinal, "you have been arrested by my orders. Do you know why?"

"No, monseigneur, for the only thing for which I could be arrested is still unknown to your eminence. If monseigneur will have the goodness to tell me in the first place what crimes are imputed to me I will then tell your eminence what I have really done."

"You are charged with having corresponded with the enemies of the kingdom. You are charged with having surprised state secrets. You are charged with having endeavored to thwart the plans of your general."

"And who charges me with this, monseigneur?" said D'Artagnan. "A woman branded by the justice of the country, who attempted both to poi-

He slowly tore the paper D'Artagnan had generously put in his hand. Then he went to the end, without sitting down, a few lines upon a parchment of two-thirds was already filled. He affixed his seal to it.

"Here, monsieur," said he to the young man; "I have taken you one signed blank to give to other. The name is wanting commission; you can write it yourself."

D'Artagnan took the paper and cast his eyes over it. He saw a lieutenant's commission in the hands of the cardinal.

D'Artagnan fell at the feet of the cardinal.

"Monseigneur," said he, "my yours; henceforward dispose of me as you please. I have three friends who are meritorious and more worthy than I."

"You are a brave youth, D'Artagnan. Do with this commission what you will, only remember that, the name be a blank, it was to you I gave it. Rochefort!"

The chevalier entered immediately.

"Rochefort," said the cardinal, "see M. d'Artagnan. I receive among the number of my friends, then, and be prudent if you wish to preserve your head. Rochefort and D'Artagnan, coolly, but the cardinal was still serving them with his vigilant eye. They left the chamber at the same time.

"We shall meet again, shall we not, monsieur?"

"When you please," said D'Artagnan, and they parted.

"We were beginning to grow tired," said Athos.

"Well, here I am, my friend," said D'Artagnan, "not only in your favor."

He related all that had taken place between the cardinal and himself, drawing the commission from his pocket. "Here, my dear Athos," he said, "this belongs to you naturally."

"My friend," said Athos, "this is too much; for the Count de Fere it is too little. Keep it for your mission. It is yours. Alas, you purchased it dearly enough."

"Here, my friend," said D'Artagnan, "write your name."

EPILOGUE

La Rochelle, deprived of the assistance of the English fleet and of the reinforcements promised by Buckingham, surrendered after a siege of a year. On the 28th of October, 1628,
the capitulation was signed.

D'Artagnan took possession of his rank. Porthos left the service and in the course of the following year married Mme. Coquenard. The so much coveted coffer contained 800,000 livres.
Mousqueton became his factotum.

Aramis took the habit in a convent of Nancy. Bazin became a lay brother.
Athos remained a musketeer under the command of D'Artagnan till the year 1631, when he also quitted the service under the pretext of having inherited a small property in Roussillon.
Grimaud followed Athos.

D'Artagnan fought three times with Rochefort and wounded him at each encounter. At length they embraced heartily and without retaining any malice.

Planchet obtained from Rochefort
the rank of sergeant in the guards.

M. Bonacieux lived on very quietly, perfectly ignorant what had become of his wife and caring very little about the matter. One day he had the im-prudence to intrude himself upon the memory of the cardinal. The cardinal had him informed that he would provide for him so that he should never want for anything in future. In fact,
M. Bonacieux, having left his house at 7 o'clock in the evening to go to the Louvre, never appeared again in the Rue des Fossoyeurs, and the opinion of those who seemed to be the best informed was that he was fed and lodged in some royal castle at the expense of his generous eminence.

THE END.

Serving It.

Lift up your eyes and look about
And get your money's worth,
For lying fair before you see
A great old little earth.
The view is very wide and bright
And pulsing everywhere,
And not a picture in the world
Can with the sight compare.

Lift up your eyes. Don't facus them
Upon the lowly ditch
The while you brood upon your woes
And wish that you were rich.
Before you lies a waiting world,
All joyous, bright and fair,
And, with the others of your kind,
In it you own a share.

Lift up your eyes and take a look,
For everything is free,
And an admission need be paid.

Your Oysters.

Do not salt oysters when cooking.
Wait until just before they come from the stove; otherwise they will shrivel and become tough.

One woman who has a reputation for her cooking always adds just a pinch of baking powder to the cracker—not bread—crumbs in which she rolls the oysters before frying.

Before turning oyster soup into the tureen put into the dish a heaping tablespoonful of finely minced celery and half as much chopped parsley. The flavor of the soup will be much enhanced.

In making buttonholes in materials

foundation is secured and no fraying results.

Save the grape baskets to fill with dainties and see what charming Christmas gifts can be made. To the Cynics.

Christmas comes but once a year.
Do not make a jest of it.
'Tis a season of good cheer.
Cynics spoil the zest of it.
Now a respite, brief repose,
Let us make the best of it.
Drown out many weary woes.
Christmas, we are blest of it.

Christmas comes but once a year.
Children love the zest of it.
Now a message glad we hear,
Marked in the best of it.
Just good will and wishes kind
And your love, the best of it.
If we're poor, well, never mind,
Laugh we will and jest of it.

Christmas comes but once a year.
Always not the best of it.
Hearts alone can help and cheer.
Christ has made the best of it.
Whoever may detain
Sorrow from the best of it.
Always Christmas comes to all
Even those who jest of it.

FUN IN "FUTURES."

Fortune Telling For the Christmas Party.

Anything in the nature of fortune telling is always popular, and, notwithstanding denials, there is a vein of superstition in every one's character. No game is more heartily entered into than one dealing ostensibly with fate or the future. Be it intricate or simple, it is fully enjoyed.

In the game of futures great fun is sure to ensue, because the futures can be previously arranged to suit the conditions of certain people, although generally the one in charge of the web of fate knows as little of what will be revealed as the individual himself. From a given center cords of all colors and conditions, no two alike, extend in every direction—upstairs, downstairs and almost in my lady's chamber, across each other here and there, often being knotted together at these points of intersection. Each searcher winds up his cord as he proceeds, and many difficulties in the way of knots to be untied and round and round windings to be unwound he encounters. When he finally reaches his future it usually proves to be a coin, a toy, a book of nursery tales or some article of absolute absurdity. This he takes back to the individual who started him in pursuit of his fate, who must be clever enough to give him quite a little information as to what will or will not happen, basing her remarks on the "future" he found at the end of the cord. Each "future" thus found is to be considered significant of other things.

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS TREE.

Custom Originated With Northernmen Hanging the Stockings.

Across the English channel, where the Gauls and the Franks and the northernmen observed the stern rites of the severe religion of a strong hearted race, trees formed an important part in the festive observances of the feast days. The pine tree—ever in all ages an object of deserved admiration—was greatly revered by the northern folk. At the time of the midwinter celebration the northernmen hung gifts upon the tree for their gods. As is readily seen, when the early fathers of the church came to this fierce people with their message of peace it was easy to change the idea of gifts proffered to beathen deities into a custom where offerings were made to the Christian God.

Thus from such humble beginnings began the cherished customs which are our heritage of today. Gift giving on the birthday of Christ may be logically traced to that observance prevalent in the middle ages of having Christmas boxes wherein offerings were placed for the priests. Christmas boxes gradually became an institution in Christian families as well.

Hanging up the stockings on Christmas eve, as the institution of good St. Nicholas, old Santa Claus, is of purely Christian origin and started in Germany many hundred years ago. It has become one of the most cherished of the Christmas customs of the civilized world.—National Monthly.

Christmas Don'ts

Don't leave the cost mark on presents.

Don't let Christmas giving deteriorate into a trade.

Don't let money dominate your Christmas giving.

Don't embarrass yourself by giving more than you can afford.

Don't expect to receive as much as you give, as the odds are on the disappointment.

Don't acquire your Yuletide before the fun of Christmas actually begins. No Christmas is fulfilled when the celebrant is filled full.

Don't be the first to tell a child there is no Santa Claus. If you have to lie about it lie, and lie as attractively as your education will permit.

Don't eat your Christmas dinner in a restaurant if you can find any old home that you may eat it in, for a Christmas dinner in a home is worth two in the bush.

Don't let your Christmas go by without giving some sort of present to a child. The excuse that you know no children will not suffice. You can know plenty of them between now and the day of days.

Don't decide to abstain from giving just because you cannot afford expensive presents. The thoughtfulness of your gift, the interest you take in those to whom you give, are the principal things. The intrinsic value of your gift counts very little.

Don't give things because they are cheap and make a big show for the money. As a rule, it is a dangerous thing to pick up a lot of all sorts of things at bargain sales for Christmas presents. If you do there is always the temptation to make inappropriate gifts.

A CHRISTMAS HYMN.

No tramp of marching armies,
No banners flaming far;
A lamp within a stable,
And in the sky a star.

Their hymns of peace and gladness
To earth the angels brought;
Their "Gloria in Excelsis"
To earth the angels taught

When in the lowly manger
The holy mother maid
In tender adoration
Her Babe of Heaven laid.

Born lowly in the darkness,
And none so poor as he,
The little children of the poor
His very own shall be.

No rush of hostile armies,
But just the muddling sheep,
The angels singing of the Christ
And all the world asleep.

No flame of conquering banners,
No legions sent afar;
A lamp within a stable,
And in the sky a star.

CHRISTMAS IN BENTON'S DAY

From Fremont's Description of Celebration of Long Ago. Christmas of eighty years ago is described by Mrs. Jessie Fremont, wife of General Fremont and daughter of H. Benton. The time was President Jackson's administration and the scene was Mrs. Benton's home, near Staunton.

It was about the roaring log fire in Benton's father and mother, and her two little girls, of which was one. The mother is to the grandfather, and a aunt, "Uncle Ralph," is hovering over and replenishing the fire. The children were not to make a fire or it would disturb grandfather now we will let the future tell her own story: "One, then, the strong impression on me by the upset of all red calm. Noises came from the door, noises of horses and of cheerful, vigorous noises of clumped off, laughing and the baggage."

Our mother was actually running the hall, while my grandfather, minding the noise, but looked on, was standing up and putting his hands to the big man on the clothes! For it was there, our dear, loving father, come to us for Christmas and a big trunk full of Christmas everybody. See it all so well. Opening of that trunk took

CHRISTMAS.

Christmas comes but once a year. Let's enjoy it while it's here. Eat your turkey without fear. Never pause to shed a tear. Should you feel a trifle queer After wings or running gear, Neck and bishop's nose y-fere, Take a pill a l'Aleck Thweatt, He who never dares to eat Waffles, cakes or sausage meat, Nothing sour, nothing sweet; Lives a week on shredded corn, Never smoked since he was born; Water's all he ever drinks; Living low, he highly thinks. Christmas turkey, Christmas pie, Christmas pudding, Christmas sigh! Merry Christmas! Merry week! Happy New Year! Very week!

PRETTY CHRISTMAS TABLE.

An Old Fashioned Party For the Children.

The arrangement of a table at a Yuletide party was quite unusual, inasmuch as it was an old fashioned square one, lengthened to accommodate twelve children. It was pushed back against the wall, and at the back was the largest sized Yule log candy box, resting on a bed of holly and mistletoe.

On top of the log was a doll dressed as a jester, called the "Lord of Mischance," and attached to the front end of the log by red ribbons were six dolls dressed to represent the first six months of the year. Following after the log were six more figures dressed like the last six months. At each plate were a holly paper covered horn and a wee tree lit with red wax tapers.

The children were to blow out the candles, making a wish for each one. If they go out with the very first puff the wish will come true. A white and red Christmas ribbon goes to each plate, fastened by a spray of holly. Then each child looks at the dolls and says which one he or she thinks represents the month in which they were born.

If there should be two in the same month the one who is the oldest gets the doll for that month. As there is one for each guest, a satisfactory adjustment is easily made. The Yule log also contains small favors for each

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS.

Great Skill Shown by the Coburg Glassblowers.

From Coburg, Germany, a little railway only twenty-five miles long leads into the heart of the Thuringian forest ranges, terminating at Lauscha, where Christmas ornaments are made. Nearly every house and but is the home of a glassblower, and the smallest child that can use its hands understandingly has some part in the work.

The blowers make all their work from glass tubes of varied diameter and thickness, which are cut to convenient lengths by scratching them with a file and breaking them at the cleavage. A burner consisting of two, four or more flames issuing from tiny gas jets converges its fires upon a metal plate, which usually supports a piece of dry wood or charcoal whose slow but fierce combustion under the blue flame of the blowpipes rapidly melts the hardest glass. Driving the bellows which supplies air to his blowpipes with his feet, the operator turns out with deft swiftness balls, stars, pendants and larger ornaments of almost every conceivable shape and size.

His good wife is perhaps injecting a spray of gliding or silvering solution into a great basketful of the tiny balls, used to festoon windows and Christmas trees, or, perhaps, with greater skill is coloring with deft fingers the interior of a larger ornament.

The eldest boy may himself be a skilled operator and perhaps excels his father in creating miniature reindeer, with great spreading antlers, spirited horses, coursing hounds, fragile airships and balloons and, most wonderful of all, roses, carnations, tulips and other flowers, each of whose parts is made of colored glass of the proper color and fused in place with a delicacy of touch that far excels ordinary painting.

So light and fragile are these goods that they are packed in cotton and cartons divided into compartments and to a very great extent are shipped away from Lauscha by parcels express. So generally is this done between the middle of November and Christmas week that the postoffice force and a number of mail cars are furnished to meet the demand for parcels transportation.—National Magazine.

CHRISTMAS WREATHS.

Here's prettiness. The holly wreath leads. Southern laurel is beautiful. California pepper berries serve to adorn.

Scotch heather is one of the pretty wreath materials.

Red immortelles will at least never blush unseen.

Lycopodium is often used with very good effect for wreaths.

But, after all, holly is first favorite, with its lovely bright red berries.

The gay bow of holly red satin ribbon is the usual finish, though it should not be used with berries of the California pepper tree.—Philadelphia Record.

English Plum Pudding.

For those who want their plum puddings homemade the following recipe
may prove useful:

Take one-half pound of finely shredded suet, one-half pound of washed and dried currants, three-fourths of a pound of stoned raisins, four tablespoonfuls of dried and sifted breadcrumbs, three tablespoonfuls of warm sifted flour,
five ounces of loaf sugar, three eggs,
three ounces of shredded citron, one-half nutmeg grated and a teaspoonful of brandy. Mix these well together, adding enough milk to make it of nice consistency, and boil for six or eight hours.

This pudding keeps admirably, and when it is not to be used for some time it should be boiled, say, for six hours and then hung from a hook in the storeroom until about to be used, when it should again be placed in the pan and boiled for an hour and a half or two hours longer.

It may be boiled in a mold, a basin or a cloth and must be kept in whichever is chosen until ready to be served.

A Mean Holiday Spirit.

Do not gauge your Christmas giving.
There is nothing more despicable than to work off the back numbers or the shabby, useless gifts on the girl who "needs everything" and spend a small fortune on those who can spend on themselves.

Christmas Eve.

The hoar of time where the frost's gray
rime
In fantastic glamour lies;
A sheen of light on the gleaming white
That mirrors the spangled skies;
A great cold star in the heavens afar
And a moon trail on the hills;
The earth instilled with an awe fulfilled
And the night with music thrilled.

The carolers sing as the church bells ring.
While up in the organ loft
The sage owls croon as the calm, sweet tune

Comes swelling, but ever soft.
The message flies through the changing skies

By changing time and tongue,
But ever the same as the tale that came
The shepherd men among.

Where the mistletoe and the laurel bough
And the holly and bay are twined,
Where the hearth fire gleams as in ancient dreams.

One age is but in mind.
As in modern dreams the hearth fire
gleams,

So, under the eavesment still,
The carolers sing as the tower tongues
swing

Man's peace and God's good will.

—Stephen Chalmers.

Undertaking Too Much.

Do not go into Christmas so hard
there is no hope of getting through.
Curb your notions. Better give your friend a small centerpiece this year than intend to give her a dozen plate and tumbler dollies which may reach her in 1915. Where there is a large list Christmas giving should be simple.

CHRISTMAS POSTALS BURNED.

Dead Letter Office Destroyed 178,000
Last Year.

The dead letter office in Washington last year destroyed 178,000 picture postcards. The majority of them carried Christmas greetings and were held as unmailable because either the postage was not prepaid or the cards bore mica or tinsel ornaments and were mailed in unsealed envelopes.

The transmission of cards with mica or tinsel decoration is forbidden by the postal regulations because in the past the eyes of employees were injured by handling them.

The Christmas Present.

A plague on him who sourly dubs
The custom overdone,
For every Christmas gift contains
All presents rolled in one.

It takes the faith in things unseen
Most wonderful to think,
In reindeer journeys over roofs
While stars look down to wink.

It takes the hope which ever springs
In high and lowly found,
The optimism and the trust
That make the world go round.

And, last, it calls for charity.

The present to enhance,
But if from giver or givee
Depends on circumstance.
—McLandburgh Wilson in New York Sun.

Christmas Flowers.

Flowers always make a lovely gift and will keep fresh several days if the following precautions are taken:

Dip the ends of the stems in melted paraffin wax and carefully wrap the flowers with sheets of cotton. Line
the box with waxed paper, being careful to leave plenty to fold over the flowers.

Place them in the box, cover over with the paper, wrap with several thicknesses of brown paper and they are ready to express.

Thought In Giving.

Do not spend more than you can afford on Christmas tokens. Nothing justifies it. Friends who know your circumstances will worry if they do not criticize you for false pride or love of display. If you put thought into your giving it will save you pennies.

Packing the Present.

Tissue paper, excelsior or finely cut paper will prove the best material to fill in all space, making it impossible for the Christmas gift to be broken.

Sensible Gift Giving.

Stop thoughtless giving. It is a waste of money, and no one thanks
you. Far better an appropriate trifle than a costly present for which the recipient has no use.

W. C. T. U.

In a recent issue of the Christian Guardian appeared an editorial entitled "Can this be true." This article dealt with the shocking conditions in regard to child labour in the canneries of New York State as revealed to the State Factory Investigating Committee by Miss Chamberlain, a graduate of Vassar College, who worked in some of these canneries in order to obtain at first hand a thorough knowledge of the conditions prevailing there. She found little foreign children from four years up working from 4 a. m. until 11 p. m., kept awake often by the blows raised upon them by their parents who worked with them. The editorial goes on to ask if such things be true of Ontario. As yet no Ontario woman, who has devoted herself to the self-sacrificing work of Miss Chamberlain, has come forward to answer this question, but all of us, who have any acquaintance with the larger cities of Ontario, know that children much below the legal age are employed in our shops and factories. Anyone doubting this might go to Toronto and take a Bathurst or Bloor car at any time between six thirty and eight in the morning and he'd be quite convinced that child labour is a real fact in our shops and factories. Go to the large shops at Christmas season and see the little over-anxious, drawn faces of little old women from ten to fifteen. What a mockery to Christian civilization that the anniversary of the birthday of the founder of Christianity should be made a season for overworking the little children in our midst—and who of us is innocent?—for if we acquiesce of our inertia we become accomplices and must face that inevitable judgment. "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these, ye did it unto me."
